The Wentworth Male Academy of this city has recently been incorporated and organized upon a permanent basis. The occasion is a good one to say a word as to its past, present and future. It will be remembered that about two years ago Mr. Hobson came here and was encouraged by many ottizens and by the Intelligencer to lay the foundation for a male academy. There was need for one. Lexington being aiready well-known as an educational point, having three there was no school in the county where young men could receive special preparation for college or take a special commercial course, the only schools for boys above the chools here and at Dover. Mr. Hobson conented to try the experiment, and to learn the ground undertook a school for a year inglehanded. In this he succeeded so well as to win the confidence of the entire community, both as to his competency as a teacher and his thorough reliability as a gentleman. Mr. Stephen G. Wentworth had taken great interest in Mr. Høbsou's experiment, and, as a memorial to a sen who had died a short time before, he determined to overcome the greatest difficulty in the way of establishing the intended academy, by presenting for the purpose the necessary oullding. This he did a year ago in a very andsome manner, purchasing the Northern Presbyterian church, a large edifice built at s cost of $12,000 or $13,000, and which had been but very little used. Mr. Hobson call ed Mr. Sellers to his assistance, and the school was placed upon a basis more in acpord with the idea of its foundation. The gentlemen have been eminently successful Theroughly competent, moral and prudent, energetic, and with a love for their profesion they have done good, substantial work, which is generally appreciated by their patrons. This is encouraging for the futur of the institution. To remove all uncertain Wentworth has deeded it to a corporate body representing the six most prominent communions in the county, namely :- S. G. Wentworth and W. G. Mclausland, of the Presbyterian church, Henry C. Wallace, of the Missionary Baptist church, Edward Winsor, of the Methodist Episcopal Weedin, of the Cumberland Presbyterian church. The articles of association provide for perpetuating this board of trustees by election by the various religious bodies mentloned, so that it shall in no wise change its will meet at their armory on Tuesday, May for their politics. AWAYS.

HAVE an excellent Portable Saw Mill., and desire to get a set for it somewhere for next fall and winter where I can get good logs. It can be ready to move by October 1st. The mill is now on Blackwater, close to Kirkpatrick's mill, 12 miles south of Auliville. I have done a great deal of work at this place, and at my previous setting on Flagstaff sawed 339,000 feet of lumber. The mill and engine are both good ones and in charge of a practical man, Mr. Geo. Kenney. I have sawed a 16 foet log that made 1,350 feet of lumber, and 12 foot log that made 1,250 feet. For particulars address me at Higginsville. (m718) JOHN W. OLIVER.
